HOW TO USE POLISHING ACCESSORIES

Always wear goggles when polishing, buffing, or grinding.

1. Choose most applicable compound depending on work surface material to be polished. Start with coarsest applicable compound.
2. Apply compound sparingly to the face of a revolving spiral sewn buff (or lambs wool polishing bonnet). Repeat application of compound as needed during the buffing and polishing operation.
3. Use only slight pressure in applying the revolving buff to the work surface, thereby allowing the buff and the compound to do the work.
4. If after polishing, the work surface is still dull, it will be necessary to repeat the operation following up with a finer suitable compound.
5. Before changing from one compound to another "Rake" buff thoroughly with a sharp tool to remove previous compound. Better yet, keep a different buff for each compound.
6. Beautiful finishes can be obtained with the finest applicable compound applied to a single stitch buff, felt wheel/or bob.
7. When work has been completed the working surface can be washed in warm soapy water to remove any excess buffing compound or dirt which may have accumulated. Dry with a soft wool cloth or chamois. The high luster obtained from buffing can be protected from future oxidation by the proper application of a clear metal lacquer

SPIRAL SEWN COTTON BUFFING WHEELS

Spiral Sewn Cotton Buffing Wheels are the most common wheel used for general polishing. The spiral design provides a tighter stitching than a single stitched buff, which allows for greater pressure to be applied to the work surface. Available in a variety of sizes and thicknesses, both mounted and unmounted. See page 4.

SPIRAL SEWN TREATED BUFFING WHEELS

Spiral Sewn Treated Buffing Wheels are similar to the spiral sewn cotton buffing wheels. They are chemically treated to last longer than standard buffs as well as provide a more aggressive cutting action. Available in 6" x 1/2" arbor hole, and 8" x 5/8" arbor hole. See page 4.

SINGLE STITCHED COTTON BUFFING WHEELS

Single Stitched Cotton Buffing Wheels have

one row of stitching around the center which makes these buffing wheels extremely flexible. They are perfect as a final step in the polishing process, bringing out the highest luster in your project. They are also used to help polish hard to reach surfaces. Available in a variety of sizes and thicknesses, both mounted and unmounted. See page 4.

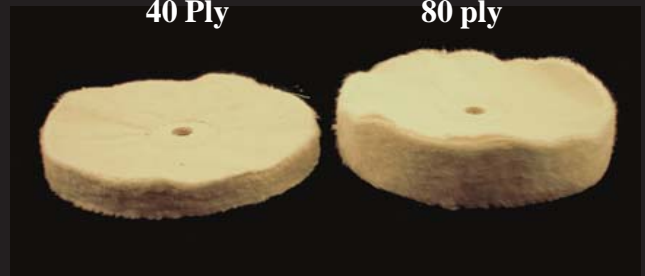

EXTRA THICK BUFFING WHEELS

Extra thick buffing wheels provide the user with a larger polishing surface. This will help to speed up the polishing process as well as makes it easier to do larger projects. They also have a longer life than standard buffing wheels. In order to get extra thick buffs, competitors will glue two standard buffs together. Glue can come apart or possibly ruin the surface being worked on. Ours are stitched all the way through, providing a safe sturdy buffing wheel.

COMPOUNDS

Compounds are used similar to sandpaper in that they are used from coarse to fine. A work piece that is severely scratched might even need to be sanded down with sandpaper (page 6) before polishing. Once the scratch depth is minimal on the work piece it is advised to start with the coarsest compound that is applicable to the material being polished. From there one should then move down to the next compound and so on until a mirror like finish is achieved.

Note: It may not always be necessary to start with the coarsest and go all the way to the finest. This will depend on the condition of the material being polished.

Compounds are available in 1 oz., 4 oz, and 1 lb. bars.
For compound selection see page 1.

SPECIALTY BUFFS

At Enkay we carry a large variety of specialty buffs. What makes these buffs special is there shape and size. The different shapes and sizes will help to polish hard to reach areas that standard buffs can't. These specialty buffs come mounted on 1/4", 1/8", and 3/32" shanks.

Specialty buffs can be found on pages:
1, 3, 5, 15, and 16
